State Committed To Link Of Shortway

QUIET CONSTRUCTION SITE—Things remained quiet at the site of the new Science Building on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College campus yesterday as ironworkers protested an alleged illegal firing and picketed the job until noon. Boyd Kline, Bloomsburg contractor, had refused to negotiate on the issue, since, he claims, he had the right to get rid of the man. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Fourth Strike At College Job

FOR THE FOURTH time in as many months, work has stopped on the sites of the new Science Building and Women's Dormitory on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

George Wilson, business agent for the Building Trades Council, told the Daily Record the ironworkers, of Local 36, started the walkout for the alleged illegal firing of the job steward by Harold Fisk, superintendent on the site for Boyd Kline, Bloomsburg contractor.

Tank Flames Spread Over 200 Feet

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—A gasoline storage tank, ignited by flames from a burning filling station, exploded Tuesday and spewed a huge jet of flame 200 feet into a group of firemen.

One fireman died in a hospital and 100 persons, mostly firefighters, were injured. Seven of them remained in critical condition.

Virgil L. Sams, Kansas City, Mo., fireman, died in a hospital about six hours after the explosion.

Most of the injured firemen were standing in a four-lane boulevard, playing streams of water on a Conoco Oil Co. station and nine storage tanks in the rear and five smaller ones on one side.

One of them exploded, blowing the top of the tank about 50 feet to the rear of the station. Then another exploded with a soft pop. Both shot flames harmlessly into a railroad switching yard.

Sprays Flames

Suddenly another tank broke from its concrete foundation, overturned and sprayed a long sheet of flame across the boulevard and down a side street.

For a few seconds the fireball obscured the firemen.

On one side of the people in the Madison River canyon was the high slide. On the other side was 44-year-old Hebgen Dam, 87 feet high, damaged but still holding back a third of a million acre feet of water.

Ike To Release Facts On Steel Strike To Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower decided Tuesday to push for a steel strike settlement by giving the public basic facts about the dispute.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell announced the decision after a 45-minute discussion with the President.

"We hope as a result of these background studies that the parties will bargain a little harder and reach a settlement," Mitchell told newsmen.

Mitchell has been working for weeks, with a huge staff, gathering statistics from both government and industry sources. Data he will release today, for Thursday's newspapers, will cover wages, profits, productivity, prices and some related subjects.

His report will be purely factual, Mitchell said, with no recommendations that either the United Steelworkers Union or the companies do anything.

Asked whether the data will favor either side, he said: "I think that is for the public to judge."

Meany Tabs Labor Reform As 'Killer'

By Bob Stewart

FOREST PARK — AFL-CIO Executive Council President George Meany yesterday termed the Landrum-Griffin labor bill as a "killer bill" which was designed by the proponents of big business on Capitol Hill.

Meany made this accusation during a press conference following the second day's session of the Executive Council at Unity House here.

He said the L-G bill will restrict and punish decent and honest unions and members, and makes no better contribution to the labor movement.

Describing the measure as unfair, Meany said the bill's promoters are "more interested in placing restrictions on legitimate labor than stopping racketeering."

Meany said the bill places restrictions on labor without placing similar restrictions on employers in the field of collective bargaining.

In Favor

When asked his idea of Labor Secretary Mitchell's stand on the bill and the secretary's support of it in view of his past record, Meany said Mitchell has stated his position on the bill and is in favor of the measure.

"My belief is that this contradicts his previous position," Meany said.

Asked what immediate course the labor movement would take regarding the bill, Meany said he had no suggestions at that moment, since the bill has yet to be passed by the Senate, but he said he "hoped the less detrimental provisions will finally be adopted."

The bill is presently in the Senate Committee where the members are conferring on the measure. A reliable source at the meeting at Unity House pointed out that most of the committee's members are friendly to labor.

When Meany described the bill as a "killer" measure, he was asked who had previously described the bill as such. Meany replied that he was told by Joseph Alsop, a Washington columnist, that Rep. Charles Halleck (R-Ind.) house minority leader, had reported he had finally gotten a "killer bill."

Labor columnist Victor Riesel asked Meany if the AFL-CIO will consider any departure from their former stand regarding the Democratic party since the present Congress is Democratic controlled.

Meany replied he had no formal association with any party, but he also stated that in the future the AFL-CIO would like to see those persons who believe in the labor movement elected to Congress.

Questioned as to any thoughts of labor's forming a third party, Meany said this is out of the real mod possibility.

Meany did say labor supporters would confer with the Senate Committee members examining the L-G bill.

Going over the history of the AFL-CIO regarding possible corruption, Meany said the Executive Board of the union had asked six years ago for such legislation. But he also said the present bill, as it now stands, is not fair in that it will punish the "entire labor movement for the sins of a few."

Detrimental

The Landrum-Griffin bill, Meany stated, goes as far as possible to be detrimental to labor. Provisions of the bill will allow 60,000 local officers to be "hailed in" for legal action without knowing what they have done until the court decides.

The bill will only hamstring and harass the labor movement, Meany said.

Enlarging on this statement, Meany said the economy and well-being of the country will be affected at a time when it could ill-afford such action by impeding the work of smaller unions.

They will continue to function, he said, but with a "black jack poised over their heads."

Meany said Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.) is the real author of the bill. He said the measure was never given consideration by the House Rules Committee, but was pushed by the NAM for passage.

Plans For Penn-Can Progressing Tannersville

HARRISBURG — Highways Secretary Park H. Martin was questioned yesterday regarding plans for the Penn-Can Highway and other major road projects in Monroe County.

The questions were put by John M. Crandall, president of the Pocono Mountains Motor Club, and Iorace G. Heller, general manager of The Daily Record. Crandall and Heller were members of a Northeast Pennsylvania delegation which met with Martin on area highway problems.

Heller wanted to know the status of the proposed

Penn-Can Highway from Dunmore south to Crescent Lake, where it will connect with the projected Keystone Shortway.

Martin said this phase of the preliminary design stage and no contract for the final stage has yet been awarded.

When questioned by Crandall regarding the design for the last leg of the Route 940 improvement project between Pocono Summit and Mount Pocono, Martin said the department is making another study before determining the exact route.

The secretary also told the men that the point where the Penn-Can will intersect Route 940 has not yet been determined.

From another source, they learned that all plans for the Penn-Can from CLU Park to Route 12 near Bartonsville will be in the hands of the department very shortly.

This source said this meant that the state could call for bids on 10 to 15 million dollars worth of road construction yet this Fall. Other projects would follow.

In the afternoon, Heller and Crandall conferred with State Sen. William Z. Scott (R-Lansford) and Rep. Albert W. Johnson, House minority leader and Republican candidate for the Superior Court.

They talked over area highway matters with the two legislators and received a pledge of support from them.

Later, they met with Rep. Van D. Yetter (D-Monroe) and obtained a similar promise to pressure for early construction of the roads.

Figures In Long Stretch

HARRISBURG — The state is committed to build a 100-mile stretch of the Keystone Shortway—from Tannersville to White Deer—as rapidly as final plans and funds become available. Highways Secretary Park H. Martin said yesterday.

He said the department had previously agreed to give priority to building the section from Tannersville (Crescent Lake) to the North Branch of the Susquehanna River near Berwick.

The state has since expanded this to include the entire section west to White Deer where the Shortway will intersect United States Route 15, the Buffalo-Washington highway, some 20 miles south of Williamsport.

Martin said the state is pushing this proposed construction toward the final design stage. He said it might reach that stage within a year. It is presently in the preliminary design stage.

Martin made the disclosure at a conference with industrial redevelopment leaders from northeastern counties. The meeting was arranged to assess all delays now hampering early construction of the Shortway, the Anthracite Expressway and the Penn-Can Highway.

Anthracite Expressway

Martin reported that construction of the Anthracite Expressway will begin in 1961 and will take in a 23-mile stretch from Dunmore south to a junction with the Shortway at Drums, near Hazleton. This section is in the final design stage, Martin said.

No study on the remainder of the Expressway, which is to extend to Harrisburg, has been undertaken, the secretary disclosed.

Thomas L. Moran, Scranton, acted as chairman for the 13 representatives of the regional economic mission. He outlined the unemployment problem in Northeastern Pennsylvania and emphasized that modern highways are essential to bringing new industries into the area.

The Scranton newspaper executive observed that industrial development leader are cognizant of the fact that the Pocono resort area is a tremendous magnet in attracting new plants to the entire region.

Victor C. Diehm, Hazleton, president of the Northeast Pennsylvania Industrial Development Commission, said "We desperately need" superhighway facilities because they are the center of industrial redevelopment plans.

Martin told the delegation: "This is what you can do—you can ask the Legislature to vote us the money. If we don't get an increase in the gasoline tax, we're going to be in a tough situation."

(Later in the day, the House voted to boost the state's present five-cents-a-gallon fuel tax a penny at the request of Gov. David Lawrence.)

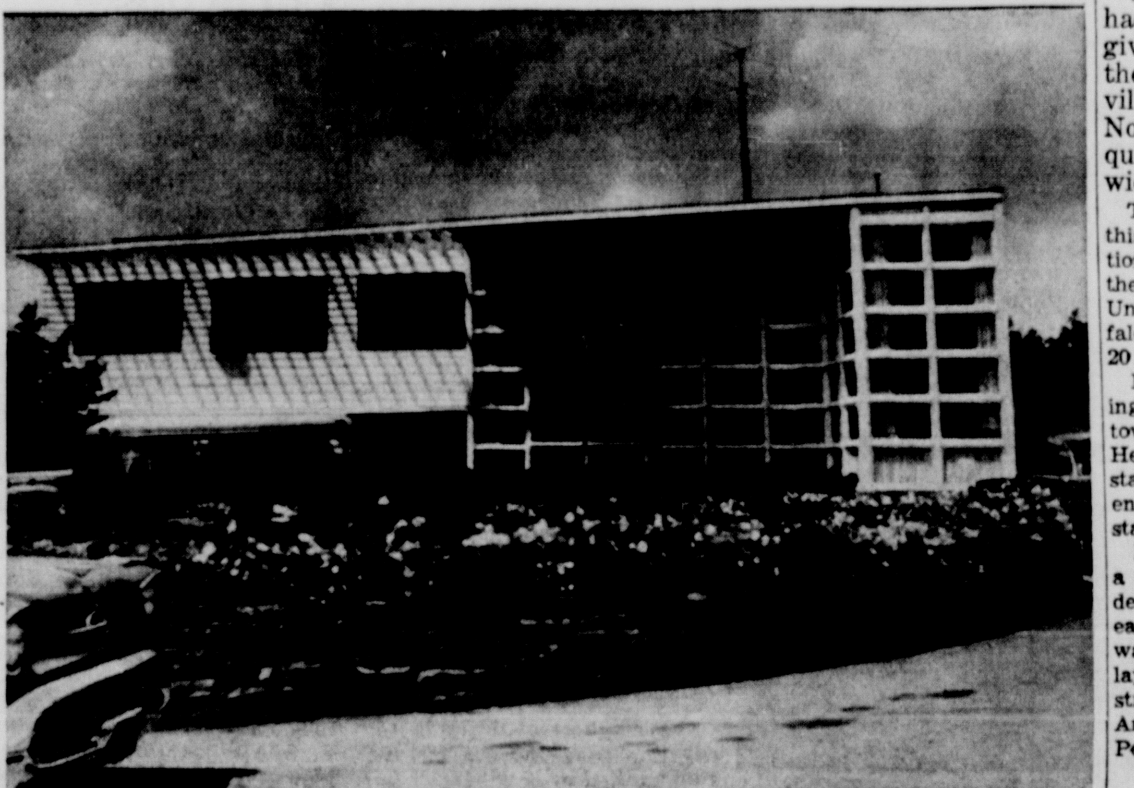

"The problem, frankly, is money," said Martin. He added that how well the state meets its interstate road construction commitments depends on what Congress does about supplying funds for the federal road program.

Dyberry Dam Dedication Set For Today

HONESDALE (AP) — The Dyberry Flood Control Dam, designed to protect against floods such as that which followed hurricane Diane four years ago, will be dedicated today on the anniversary of the hurricane.

The 4½ million dollar structure, already in use, was started in May, 1957, and is the first phase of the Lackawanna River flood control project. It is designed to protect Honesdale, Hawley and other river communities.

Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, Army chief of staff and a native of Honesdale, will be the principal speaker at the dedication ceremony.

Bill Termed 'Anti-Labor' Measure

FOREST PARK — Referring to the House-passed Landrum-Griffin labor control bill as an anti-labor measure, the AFL-CIO Executive Council, meeting here this week, reported the measure would "destroy the ability of honest labor unions to do an effective job to improve labor's wages and conditions of work."

The Executive Council said the AFL-CIO "has a proud and long record of opposition to corruption in any form" and accused the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) of countenancing corruption in its own ranks, while opposing effective anti-racketeering legislation for months on end.

In a written press release at yesterday's session of the Executive Council, the joint union pointed out that in April 1958 the General Board of the AFL-CIO had asked for the passage of labor reform legislation by Congress, which they reportedly desired for the protection of the funds of union members and to safeguard the democratic rights of union members, and, finally, to help the government "get rid of crooks operating in the labor-management field."

The committee then said constructive measures to combat corruption and to safeguard union democracy were long since drafted by the Senate Committee and were in two bills which passed the Senate: the Kennedy-Ives bill and the Kennedy-Ervin bill.

Financial Reporting

These two bills would require financial reporting by unions and their officers and would also regulate union elections and trusteeships, the committee reported.

The committee accused the NAM and its allies of using talk of corruption as a smoke screen, and said they wanted to write into the law those provisions to make it "difficult if not impossible for unorganized workers hereafter to form unions, and to weaken unions in collective bargaining."

The report stated the issues involved have nothing to do with "corruption" the council said.

Key provisions pointed out by the council insofar as the Landrum-Griffin bill is concerned are: Denies to small unions and

AFL-CIO Executive Council Backs Housing Legislation

FOREST PARK — The AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting here yesterday called for the immediate enactment of housing legislation, and blasted President Eisenhower's veto of such last year as "indefensible."

The council said for the second year "the majority of the representatives of the people... have been thwarted in their effort to enact moderate but forward looking housing legislation."

The council said the presidents "ill-advised attempt to characterize the bill as 'extravagant' and 'inflationary' was based upon misstatements of the pertinent facts."

While the bill was no far-reaching one, the council said, it was a minimum bill which fell far short of AFL-CIO recommendations, and would only have started to answer the nation's needs for housing and urban redevelopment.

Report

The council reported the bill would have gone far to providing homes "American families desperately need."

Not only would the bill have helped meet these urgent housing needs, the council said, but would also have added to the country's economy and prosperity.

Full responsibility for the president's action is his own, the council said, and his veto will not build the houses the people need nor clear the slums "sapping the vitality of our cities."

Any other bill, the council said, which the president would force upon the congress would be a stop-gap measure, and would only bridge the gap created by the failure to meet the minimum housing needs and point the "way to the enactment of a comprehensive housing bill next year."

"We support this bill, S. 2539, as indispensable to this end," the report read.

Such a bill, the council pointed out, is essential for the growing and prospering of the nation, and the AFL-CIO pledged to continue the fight to pass such legislation.

Power Restored In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Power was restored to half a million New Yorkers Tuesday, after the worst breakdown in the city's history. More than 500 square blocks were blacked out for 13 hours.

Little actual damage resulted from the breakdown.

Good Morning!

If you think the world owes you a living... better not wait around to collect it.

'The Daily Investor'

By William A. Doyle
International Investment Analyst

Q. In 1948, I purchased 50 shares of Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories common stock. I believe I paid $14 a share for it. In 1955 I was sent a certificate for 20 shares of Du Mont Broadcasting Corp. Does that mean that my 50 shares of Du Mont Laboratories are worthless?

A. No. You now own stock in two different companies, neither of which is worthless.

All this came about when Du Mont Laboratories decided, in 1955, to get out of the television broadcasting business. At that time, it organized a new company (Du Mont Broadcasting) and transferred all its television-station facilities to Du Mont Broadcasting.

Then, Du Mont Broadcasting was "spun off." That was accomplished by distributing stock of Du Mont Broadcasting, which Du Mont Laboratories owned, to the stockholders of Du Mont Laboratories.

The distribution was at the rate of one share of Du Mont Broadcasting for each two and a half shares of Du Mont Laboratories.

William A. Doyle
International Investment Analyst

The corporate name of Du Mont Broadcasting was changed, in 1958, to Metropolitan Broadcasting.

Stock of that company (in which you own 20 shares) is traded in the over-the-counter market. Stock of Du Mont Laboratories (in which you own 50 shares) is traded on the American Stock Exchange and several regional stock exchanges.

You should know all those things from the annual reports and other literature the companies send you. Don't you read your mail before you throw it away?

Q. I am 19 years old. My husband is 20. We have two children. We owe about $5,500 on our house and have about $300 in small debts. Our income is about $75 a week, out of which I can usually manage to save $5. Can you suggest what common stock would be good for us to invest in through the Monthly Investment Plan?

This may sound as if I think I can get rich quick or have some other silly notion in my head. I haven't. We have considered this carefully for a long time. We feel that savings accounts and U.S. bonds don't offer the long-range growth value of common stock. Besides, we would like to share in the great prosperity of this wonderful country of ours. Where can I get detailed information about the Monthly Investment Plan?

A. Unless there are some other facts you haven't mentioned (such as a good reserve of cash savings), the answer to your problem is simple.

Don't buy stocks. You can't afford to.

Even though your ideas are sound, your motives are good and your handling of a small family budget is wonderful (my blue-eyed finance officer sends her congratulations), you have overlooked one very important thing.

There is a RISK involved in owning stock.

Despite the fact that you would be dollar-averaging (and therefore, reducing risk through the Monthly Investment Plan) and would probably stay away from really speculative stocks, you couldn't do away with the risk altogether.

Wait a couple of more years—until your income is higher. At least, clear up those small debts. Get some money in the bank for safety's sake. Then visit an officer—any member firm of the New York Stock Exchange to get all the details of the Monthly Investment Plan.

Monroe County Births On Upswing Compared To 1958

(Record Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG—Monroe County births in the first quarter of the year were on the upswing as compared with the same period last year, the State Department of Health said yesterday.

A report just completed by the department shows the number of births in Monroe County during the three-month period totaled 187 as compared with 137 births in the county last year at the same time.

The current birth rate for the county stands at 19.0 per 1,000 population—up from a rate of 13.7 a year earlier.

Interestingly enough, the number of deaths in the county during the two comparable periods remained the same—91 during each quarter. The death rate for the county stands at 9.2 per 1,000 population.

Leading Cause
Leading cause of death in the county for the period was heart disease which killed 21 Monroe Countians (34 during the quarter last year).

Other causes of death in the county during the quarter, excluding accidents and mechanical causes: Cerebral hemorrhage, 20 (nine in 1958); cancer, 17 (12); general arteriosclerosis, four (four); nephritis, three (one); diabetes, two (four); pneumonia and influenza, two (one); and cirrhosis of the liver, two (five). Tuberculosis, once one of the leading killers caused no deaths during the quarter this year but was blamed for two deaths during the comparable quarter last year.

On the mechanical side, motor vehicle accidents claimed the lives of two Monroe Countians—exactly the same number as last year.

"Other accidents" were blamed for three county deaths (none in 1958), and "all other causes," 15 deaths (22 last year).

General Hospital May Receive $130,000 In Funds From State

Yetter Lists Legislation In House

HARRISBURG—General Hospital of Monroe County will receive its highest state appropriation in history during the current biennium, Rep. Van D. Yetter (D-Monroe) announced yesterday.

The sum of $130,000 has been earmarked for the East Stroudsburg institution for the two-year period ending June 1, 1961, the assemblyman told The Daily Record.

This compares with the previous high of $90,000 which was appropriated by the 1955 Legislature, and matched at the 1957 session.

It is only $5,000 less than the $135,000 which the board of directors of General Hospital had requested some time ago when application was made for state aid.

The increased appropriation was sought, Superintendent Harry J. Smith explained, because of the increase in the volume of services rendered to charity patients.

House Bill
The $130,000 appropriation was part of a $32,500,000 bill introduced in the House yesterday for reimbursing general hospitals in Pennsylvania for care of indigent patients.

State reimbursement is based on a rate of nine dollars a day, covering room and board, for in-patients. No allocation is allowed by nursing service, operating room, anesthesia, laboratory or drugs for indigent in-patients, and none at all for out-patient care, Smith said.

The superintendent estimated the amount of charity services rendered by the hospital at more than $230,000 a biennium. That figure covers both in-patient and out-patient (dispensary) care.

Bill Termed 'Anti Labor' Measure

small employers the right to equal justice under federal law provided for large employers and large unions. The committee said such regulation would be relegated to state courts where, the council alleged, such disputes are traditionally decided by the issuance of an injunction against the union.

The secondary boycott, which the council says is universally recognized by fair-minded people as a legitimate method in economic dispute, would be abolished.

The L-G bill would bar an employer from agreeing that he would not handle or ask his employees to handle the product of a non-union "sweatshop" or even of a company on strike, the council said, and thus denying the union the right to request such a contract.

Calling the term "blackmail picketing" a propaganda term, the council said such a provision bars traditional "free speech" picketing through which "the labor movement exposed and defeated the infamous sweatshops in the garment and other industries."

Council Claim
The bill, the council claims, places an undue burden upon the Secretary of Labor and the unpaid officers of small unions by not exempting them from the bill.

The bill would open the membership lists of trade unions to "Communists, company agents and crooks who have long desired to lay their hands upon them," the council claimed.

Finally, the bill renders suspect labor's contributions to civic welfare and national betterment by providing standards not applicable to the handling of union funds, the council reported. This will encourage harassing law suits by those determined to create havoc in the union's affairs, the council added.

The council then issued the following statement at the close of the report:

"We are determined to continue our fight against corruption and racketeering, by union representatives or employers or their agents."

"We are likewise determined to continue our fight for a better life for the workers of America. We will not be deterred by anti-labor legislation, no matter how vicious it may be."

Victor Riesel Views Labor Developments

By Bob Stewart

FOREST PARK—Among the many prominent persons attending this week's meeting here at Unity House, is one not connected in any way with unions, but who has written volumes about the labor movement.

Victor Riesel, widely syndicated columnist, just returned from a tour of Africa when the Executive Council of the AFL-CIO went into its yearly session in the Poconos, and he attended yesterday's press conference.

Riesel embodies all the adjectives denoting courage and sacrifice.

Blinded by a cowardly assassin's bottle of acid, after revealing many of the "trade secrets" of some of New York's corrupt labor racketeers, he has managed to continue, and even loom larger, on the labor front than many of labor's more flamboyant figures.

When I requested an interview, Riesel seemed plainly surprised. It isn't often a newsmen is interviewed, but he assented.

Opening the interview, Riesel seemed somewhat amazed that the Executive Council, in its prepared statement and through Union President George Meany's remarks, were as placid about the passing of the Landrum-Griffin bill as they appeared to be.

While he had no doubt the AFL-CIO would continue fighting the bill's passage, Riesel said they seemed rather resigned to the fact.

He said he thought the union would throw a lot of support into the primary companies from this point on.

Basing his observations on his past experience with labor, Riesel said congress had received much pressure to pass a labor bill. The public wanted anti-racketeering provisions written into the measure, he said, and the L-G bill was the outcome.

Riesel added he thought the entire Congress was trying to pass the measure this year to avoid making it a campaign issue during next year's presidential campaign.

Going into congress' conduct toward the bill, Riesel observed Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn must have wanted, or at least have tolerated, the bill since he could easily have blocked its passage in the House.

Passage by the House, Riesel said, does not mean the fight is over, but far from it. It is now in the Senate Rules Committee, and much could happen within a week or so.

Gas Odor Caused By Leaky Truck

A HEAVY odor of gas in Stroudsburg's business section yesterday was traced to a leaking truck loaded with propane gas.

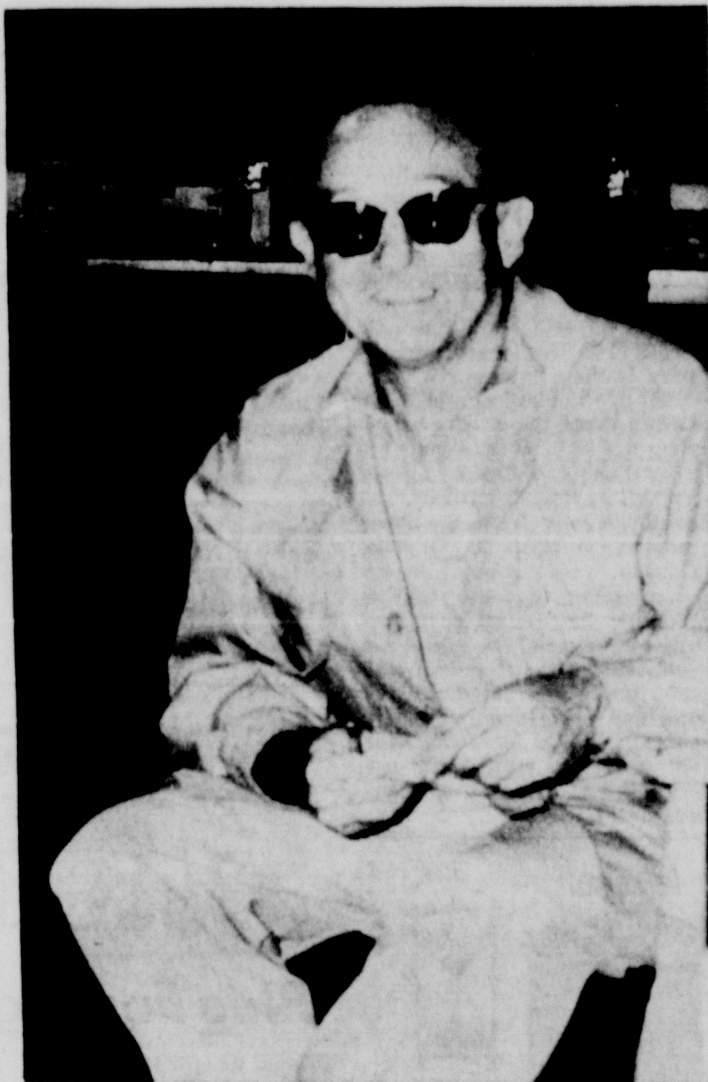

A spokesman for Citizen's Gas Co. said employees of the firm traced the vehicle from Foxtown Hill on Seventh St. to Main St. and continuing on Route 611 beyond the company's lines.

The investigation started after complaints from residents of gas odors.

No further description of the truck was available. Reports of the same gas fumes were heard from Tannersville and Mount Pocono later in the day.

day approved plans to purchase 291 acres of land for construction of a new Pennhurst annex of the White Haven State School.

ATTENDING MEETING—Victor Riesel, noted syndicated labor writer, is shown attending the meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting at Unity House, Forest Park. Riesel was interviewed following the meeting. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

The AFL-CIO, Riesel said, is going to apply a lot of pressure, and "I don't think its over since it really a long way from being adopted."

He also pointed out that undoubtedly a compromise must be reached in some respect if the bill's proponents wish it passed.

"This was labor's worst shelling since the Taft-Hartley law," Riesel said.

Even with the Democratic majority in the House, Riesel said, this proves that a so-called Democratic-labor coalition is not automatic.

The AFL-CIO will undoubtedly strengthen its Committee on Political Education (COPE), Riesel said, and through this the union will work for those friendly toward it rather than just supporting a candidate because of a political label.

Ranging from labor to travel and politics abroad, Riesel's talk was interesting, informative and easy to listen to.

Meany Tabs Labor Reform

He was asked if he thought the bill was unconstitutional, and Meany replied in the negative, adding that since he was not a lawyer he could not say.

The president may not sign the measure, Meany state facetiously, since it "may be inflationary."

When asked if the Executive Committee had worked on other matters during their morning session, Meany replied they had set up a sub-committee to go over the problems of internal disputes in the AFL-CIO.

Meany explained that the unit's objective was to make a study to evolve a program to help in solving internal squabbles.

When questioned about the no-ratting pact, Meany said it was working very well.

Winding up the conference, Meany said the disputes in the building trades were being settled extremely well. More than 75 percent of the disputes were being solved on the local level, he said.

These agreements which are resolved, he pointed out, can form a pattern for solving other disputes.

Pentz Named Chairman Of District

JOHN PENTZ, East Stroudsburg, was recently appointed district chairman for a Boy Scout membership drive scheduled this fall by the Delaware Valley Area Council.

He was appointed by Floyd L. Jones, Nazareth, who has been named to head the campaign by Harry J. Schwartz, council president.

The drive, called the "For All Boys" Roundup, is aimed at bringing in 1,000 new Cubs, Boy Scouts, and Explorers into the scouting movement. It will run from Sept. 1 to Dec. 15 and will be climaxed by open house events early in December held by each sponsoring group.

It is planned that each unit will seek recruitment of six or more new scouts. Prizes will be awarded to the scout that recruits the most boys, to the unit showing the greatest increase in membership and to the first Cub, Boy Scout and Explorer registered in each district after the commencement of the drive.

Jones said "Surveys taken throughout the council area show us that there are many boys who want to become scouts. Our object during the roundup is to see that every boy has the opportunity to participate in an enriched scouting program. We will organize new units where necessary and strive to have each of existing units operating at full capacity. Experience has shown that larger units are for the most part stronger units."

Other district chairmen appointed by Jones include A. Lowell Watson, Sullivan Trail District, A. W. Ryder, Blue Mountain District and George Fappas, Warren District.

Eagles Hear Report On Convention

A REPORT on the grand area convention held Aug. 4-9 in Toronto, Canada, was given by Frank Forzie, delegate, at last night's meeting of the Stroudsburg Eagles.

John Leathers, vice president, conducted the session in the absence of George Mackey, president. Eighty-three members were in attendance.

Three members were initiated, and four propositions for membership were received.

Ernest Ridgeway, membership chairman, reported 11 members had been initiated since the start of the annual drive. This is 13 short of the quota, he said. November marks the first half of the campaign.

William Serfass, entertainment chairman, thanked all who worked at the membership picnic last Sunday.

Signal Depot Major Moving To Monmouth

TOBYHANNA—Major Frank W. Scaplen, chief of the Storage Division at the Army Signal Corps Depot, has been reassigned to Fort Monmouth, N. J., where he will take a 10-months Advanced Officers' course.

A meeting of military and civilian chiefs yesterday heard Depot Commander Col. Clifford A. Poutre praise Scaplen for the "extremely fine" job he did for the past three years as chief of one of the depot's largest and most important operations.

Scaplen, a Cresco resident, was lauded for helping organize the new chapel on the post. An organist and singer, he took part in recent dedication ceremonies at which Chief Signal Officer of the Army Maj. Gen. Ralph T. Nelson was honored guest.

Blood Donors
Scaplen and his wife, Sarah, were regular blood donors in the depot's semi-annual drives. The major also served as scout coordinator, arranging for boy scout encampments and tours.

Enlisting in the Army in February 1941, Scaplen graduated from Officers' Candidate School in May 1942, and rose to the rank of captain before his discharge at the close of World War II.

Grandson Of Local Couple Dies

He was the son of Ewing R. and Ruth Curnow Hill. His grandfather is superintendent of Stroudsburg's Water Department.

Burned In Shed

Spending Increase

Domestic expenditures unrelated to national defense account for much of the increase in the federal budget during the last 30 years.

Figures compiled by the Budget Bureau show, for example, that Federal Government non-defense spending per family has increased from $86 in 1930 to a stupendous $548 in 1959. That's a boost exceeding 500 percent.

In the aggregate, it means non-defense spending is up from 2.6 billion dollars to 28 billion per year. Most of this increase is explained by social services and subsidies.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, told his U.S. Senate colleagues as recently as May that "nearly 40 million Americans will receive direct payments from the Federal Treasury this year."

During the period since 1930, civilian employment in the Federal Government has climbed from 644,000 to 2,100,000. The national debt has grown from $540 per family to $5,500.

In these approximately 30 years, according to records in the Budget Bureau, the Federal Government has become the largest lender and the largest borrower, the largest landlord and the largest tenant, the largest electric power producer, the largest owner of grain and the largest warehouse operator.

Such activities as these can hardly be associated with national security, so the spenders are kidding us when they say our gigantic federal budget is to be explained by the needs of national defense.

Opinions Of Other Editors

The Road-Building Tax

The House Ways and Means Committee did not find it easy to take the responsible way of financing the interstate highway-building program, but it finally came around. Three days after it had voted 15 to 8 against a temporary increase of 1 cent a gallon in the gasoline tax it reversed itself and voted 16 to 9 to accept a compromise formula that includes the tax rise. So fiscal soundness wins a victory, as does President Eisenhower.

The solution chosen involves imposition of the tax increase from Sept. 1 to June 30, 1961, when the Federal tax on gasoline would return to 3 cents a gallon. On that expiration date the highway trust fund would begin to receive the benefit of a diversion of $2,500,000,000 (over a three-year period) in taxes on automobiles, parts and accessories which now go into the Treasury's general fund.

Allocations to states for highway construction would be somewhat cut back in the next two years, a disappointment, but one that apparently must be weathered.

So the principle applied to this program from the start, that it would be kept on a pay-as-we-build basis, is maintained. The departure from principle suggested July 29 by the committee, involving a billion-dollar bond issue, and accompanied by diversion of excise taxes needed for Federal budget-balancing and drastic reduction of aid allocations for roads, has been repudiated.

The Government would have been better off, and the highway-building program would have been better served, if Congress had approved several months ago immediate imposition of the 11-1/2-cent gasoline tax rise long ago advised by the President.

But if it accepts this committee compromise it will have repaired most of the damage. The situation can be reviewed in early 1961 to see whether the Federal budget's condition warrants diversion of automobile excise taxes to the road-building program. If not, the gasoline tax should be raised again.

The Pennsylvania Story

Startling Awakening

By Mason Denison Harrisburg — It is becoming increasingly evident that the tax-torn 1959 Legislature, if little else, has driven home some of the most painful lessons to Pennsylvania taxpayers. The monstrous fiscal burden it now falls to their lot to lug around.

Most certainly the dogged struggle between the Governor's Office and anti-administration legislative leaders over the proposed $2.7 billion budgetary conglomeration and the taxes to underwrite it has been the equivalent of a public spotlight.

Just how forcefully this is borne out is illustrated by the reaction many lawmakers are receiving from their constituents at home.

Oldsters in the legislative field recall the day little more than a decade ago when it was difficult at best to arouse any appreciable awareness of state government activities on the home front with even a telephone call or personal encounter.

However there has been a transition, due primarily to two factors:

(1) It has been only within the past decade that the budget for operating Pennsylvania's state government reached the billion-dollar-plus mark — the first such fiscal giant having been born during the administration of former Governor James H. Duff (1947-1951).

(2) In the pre-billion-dollar years Pennsylvania's tax structure to cover its biennial budget was made up of a conglomeration of individual taxes affecting in many cases only particular segments of taxpayers, plus other taxes of a "hidden" or indirect nature such as taxes on industry. These taxes remain today but to cover contemporary budgets additional monies are needed.

Upshot of all this budget and tax pressure has been the inevitable broadening of a broad base tax to breach the gap between revenue provided by the hodge-podge taxes and actual needs.

First down-to-earth attempt at imposing such a tax, it will be recalled, appeared during the 1951 session when the then Governor Fine proposed an income tax.

The uproar and ultimate defeat of the proposal is now history, but in the opinion of veteran legislators it marked what might be termed the awakening — and a startling awakening at that — to the tremendous stake Pennsylvania taxpayers had in their state government.

The enactment of the sales tax that followed in 1953 to carry another billion-dollar-plus budget added fuel to the already burning fire — and by the time Governor Leader in 1955 proposed his ill-fated classified income tax to carry his record-breaking near two-billion-dollar budget, or in other words every taxpayer paying out a given sum through an income, the awakening had really arrived.

Too much is at stake today for Pennsylvanians in the operation of their state government to permit ignoring of activity in Harrisburg. Actually, today more laws are enacted that affect their everyday living than are placed on the statute books in Washington.

The tax picture illustrates the point. The oftentimes intense concern today on the local front — as frequently expressed to local representatives in the Legislature — underscores the transition. Certainly if nothing else the tax-deadlocked 1959 Legislature has helped focus the spotlight.

Adventure In Japan

Fond Reminiscences

(Not quite 15, Jonathan C. Brown spent a month visiting Japan, recording his impressions of that country. This article, his 10th, was written from notes he made during his final days in Japan and on the flight home.)

By Jonathan C. Brown DANEBO — After I got back from climbing Mt. Fuji, I slept for 14 hours and then found out that I had lost five pounds which I have not been able to gain back.

Two days later the temperature was hugging 100, so my aunt, uncle and I set off to go to Nikko which is a popular mountain resort and supposed to be cool. It was only 85 there.

We drove higher from Nikko up into the mountains to the water falls. The falls form part of a rushing river which goes down a gorge and it falls 200 feet to a rocky basin below.

We had to go through a 100 yard tunnel to reach the falls and as it was so cool in the tunnel we didn't want to leave and got to the hot outside.

Going further up the mountain we came to a lake which is ten miles around and formed from a volcano crater with high mountains on every side. Looking at it I kept thinking this is what Lake Geneva in Switzerland must look like.

As dusk drew on we went back to the heat of Tokyo and had a steak dinner. The Japanese steak is the best I have ever tasted.

There are few big herds of cattle and most of the cows come from farmers who have one or two. After the harvest the cows are fed special food to fatten them and then the farmers massage the whole cow by hand to make it more tender.

This steak I could cut with a fork, as you can with most Japanese steak.

The next day I went to see the Kabuki Theater in which there are no women. The actors, in old Japanese clothes, act out stories.

To me the most exciting parts were when the master swordsmen defeated his score or more of pupils with his samurai sword or his staff. The rest of the show was short stories, but since I could not understand them they were not too interesting.

Suddenly on the stage I saw women and I couldn't believe my eyes. They acted every bit the part of a woman and it was only when I looked at their faces that I could see that they were really men.

As my month in Japan was ending I figured my father needed some help on the lawn and so I decided it was about time to be getting back home.

The last few days were very busy getting everything arranged and buying presents for everybody. For myself I got a small transistor radio and an ivory chess set. After this I was practically "busted", but somehow managed to get a pocket machine. (This is Japan's answer to the slot machine) which weighed 30 pounds to take back.

As I got on the Japan Air Lines DC7C I was very sorry to have to leave, but I was consoled by a seven course dinner which the pretty stewardesses served. Although it was raining, once we flew above the clouds it was beautiful.

When they gave us "happy coats," which are like smoking jackets, and served us rice cakes and raw fish and other good Japanese food I began to feel a little homesick for the land which I had left.

All the way I kept thinking about my pocket machine in the back, but I had nothing to fear as JAL brought it safely to San Francisco. I can not say enough about how Japan Air Lines takes care of its passengers on their planes throughout the Orient.

The planes were big and comfortable, the service was excellent and at all times you felt as though you were in Japan with your slippers, "happy coats" and delicious Japanese food.

Since we only had two hours in Honolulu all I had a chance to do was to eat some of their wonderful pineapple. I wished I could have stayed longer, but the plane wouldn't wait.

I stayed a day in San Francisco and saw the Golden Gate Bridge, Seal Rock and rode up Nob Hill in a cable car. I also saw Alcatraz. It's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there.

From San Francisco I took my first jet ride to New York which was very exciting, but took nine hours instead of five because of bad weather and an unscheduled stop in St. Louis.

I had many impressions of Japan, but the one I remember the most was that everybody I met was very nice to me and helped me all along the trip. I was impressed by their using every bit of ground either for building or for fields.

The Japanese like everything western, but I hope that they keep their own traditions because everything that is western is not always good. I also liked the Japanese trains which are always on time.

I think the most exciting things that I did in Japan were the plane ride over Osaka, which was my first time in a small plane, and the climb up Mt. Fuji which was my first time climbing a mountain.

Japan is a rapidly growing country and I hope I will be able to go back soon to the beautiful Land of the Rising Sun which I liked so much.

News From The Realm Of Stamps

Canada is commemorating the 200th anniversary of the Battle of the Plains of Abraham, located outside the walls of the City of Quebec, by issuing a five-cent stamp on Sept. 10.

After this battle, which took place Sept. 13, 1759, France relinquished its claim to Canada, but a settlement was reached which created a nation where both English and French languages and traditions were, and still are, honored and protected.

This stamp, printed in red and green, will have as a centerpiece a group of three Maple leaves flanked by the British Lion and the Fleur de Lis of France.

The British and French emblems on the ends of a ribbon which has "Canada" in the center, symbolizes the union of French and English-speaking people to form a bilingual nation. Students of history will recall that Gen. James Wolfe and the Marquis of Montcalm were the heroes of this battle.

Both were mortally wounded in the engagement. Wolfe died rejoicing at the victory of the English forces, while Montcalm died expressing thanks that he would not live to see Quebec surrender. These two heroes are pictured on the seven-cent stamp of the series Canada issued in 1958 commemorating the Quebec Tercentenary.

Canada is following its usual procedure with this issue, placing it on sale simultaneously Sept. 10 in the larger post offices of the dominion.

All of the plate numbers are trimmed off the sheets before they are sent to these post offices thus plate number blocks, as well as first day covers, are available only from the Postmaster, Ottawa 2, Ontario, Canada.

According to some sources this may be the last commemorative Canada will issue this year. However there is always the possibility that an extra one may be forthcoming in the closing months of 1959. This will make the sixth commemorative stamp issued by Canada during the year.

Jim Riley Says:

Compare Us With New York

New York doesn't have a thing on us.

We both had a large power failure on the same day.

A truck, having lost air in its breaks and a shifting mechanism, backed down the incline and into a utility pole on East Stroudsburg's N. Courtland St.

The pole carried one of the main electric lines in the area and 1,650 Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. customers found themselves without power.

Since most of the subscribers were safely in bed at that time, the lack of power mattered very little.

But, there was some startled inhabitants of the two boroughs when daylight arrived and businessmen found they were eating their 7:30 a.m. breakfast at 9 a.m.

Disbelief, laughter and angry retorts were mingled as men dashed for work in the two boroughs after finding their electric clocks running slow.

About 12 hours after the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg power failure, a similar incident occurred in New York City. A total of 500 blocks and 500,000 people felt the discomfort of the failure.

Added demands by power, brought on by the heat wave, were given as the cause for the failure.

But, New York didn't have a thing on us.

I must marvel at the manner in which electric company repairmen work. As usual they turned in a fine job on the East Stroudsburg accident scene.

They seem to know exactly what has to be done before they arrive and they lose no time in getting the job done.

Since yesterday and today are considered to be the fourth anniversary of the disastrous 1955 flood, it might be the proper time to print the following poem by Julia Holloway, of 511 Thomas St., Stroudsburg.

1955 Flood

In all the churches loud we prayed for rain;
No flowers bloomed and wells were empty, dry.
The heat intense, while insects proved a ban,
And silent every birdsong!

In the sky
Sometimes a cloud would hide the staring sun,
Our hearts would sing in hope, but no rain fell:
It was as if all growing had been done.

And ne'er again would in fulness swell.

Then heavily through on cool days and nights

The sere, parched fields were spread with violent flood,
For clouds poured forth their rain in chilling might.
And all was sodden with polluting mud;
And while through town our cries of sorrow rang,
Unheeding human woe, birds once more sang!

Edwin Fisher, nine year old son of Mrs. Edwin Fisher, 2165 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, is a patient in Allentown General Hospital for eye surgery.

He is reported in good condition after his operation. Friends may write to him at the Ranch Home, Allentown General Hospital.

Merritt Bender was graduated on August 13, with a Master's Degree in Elementary Education from Temple University.

Bender, of Canadensis, was graduated from Barrett High School in 1946, and Moravian College in 1950.

Attending the ceremonies were his Mother, Mrs. John Bender, and his wife, Mrs. Virginia Bender.

Bender is now teaching at Whitpain High School in Lansdale.

George Sokolsky Says...

Captive Nations

When Nixon and Khrushchev held their now famous debate in the American-style kitchen at the American Fair in Moscow, the cause for Khrushchev's unruly anger was that Congress had passed a joint resolution on July 17, providing for a "Captive Nations Week."

The President approved the resolution the same day. Several times during Nixon's visits with Khrushchev, the latter referred to the "captive" — his captives. After his anger, it struck him as funny. It is not so funny for millions of human beings.

The nations referred to in the resolution are as follows: Poland, Hungary, Lithuania, Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Estonia, White Ruthenia, Rumania, East Germany, Bulgaria, Mainland China, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, North Korea, Albania, Idel-Ural, Tibet, Cossackia, Turkistan, North Viet-Nam, and others.

This is a long list of areas conquered by Soviet Russia, mainly during World War II and after. Some of these have been incorporated within the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics; others are so-called people's republics.

It is a record of the imperialistic success of the Kremlin. The resolution further states:

"... these submerged nations look to the United States, as the citadel of human freedom, for leadership in bringing about their liberation and independence and in restoring to them the enjoyment of their Christian, Jewish, Moslem, Buddhist, and other religious freedoms, and of their individual liberties."

This resolution seems to have bothered Khrushchev more than any criticism that has been made of his brutality or rudeness because it is a wholly true statement of fact.

Following the theories of Treitschke, Stalin set out to establish a number of satellite countries that would take the first brunt of war; furthermore, in these satellites first Kaganovich and then Khrushchev found a wealth of raw materials and manufacturing establishments which could be used in the development of a modern industrial complex, capable of fighting a war.

To Soviet Russia, the captive nations represent a Chinese Wall against the West. However, that wall is realistically rubble now that war must be conducted by air-borne bombs, rockets and missiles.

Nevertheless, it has been characteristic of Russian history that what the Russians take, they never give up willingly. Russia has been like a rolling snow-ball, gathering size as it rolled on and on.

Men's memories are short. We, in America, forget, for instance, that the United States brought into existence the most progressive Slavic state, Czechoslovakia.

It was the great friendship of three men, Woodrow Wilson, Prof. Thomas G. Masaryk and Charles R. Crane that carved out this nation, liberated it from the Austro-Hungarian Empire and obtained its independence at the Paris Conference after World War I.

Czechoslovakia became a democratic republic with Prof. Masaryk as president and Dr. Eduard Benes as prime minister. Hitler seized this country on the ground that the Sudeten Germans (Bohemians) were ethnically Germans and therefore belonged to him.

The Kremlin succeeded to Hitler's ownership. Czechoslovakia is now practically an integral part of Russia with no life of its own.

Americans were excited when Hitler marched into this peace-loving country of hard-working, energetic people. We are not excited today when Czechoslovakia is, for all practical purposes, a province of Soviet Russia.

We are not excited about any outrage committed by Soviet Russia. We made a big noise about Genocide when it affected Hitler; we are silent about Genocide now that it affects Soviet Russia.

In fact, it has become fashionable to go to Russia. Those who do not go there are not "in." I do not imagine what they are "in" or not "in" but they all went to Russia this Summer like bees swarming together.

This Winter, we shall be hearing all about Russia from 10 day experts who saw the Red Square in Moscow, the Nevsky in Leningrad and whatever it is they can see in Kiev — possibly the ancient cathedral.

They will all tell of the wonders of the one big department store in Moscow — something like Gimbels' basement. They will say that all Russians smile when they see Americans. It looks more like a belly-laugh watching the fools part with their money.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Plug For Highway Safety

Pocono Record Inc., Attn: John F. Hill, Editor

Dear Mr. Hill: Most everyone these days talk about safety, but not too much is done about it in many phases. However, anything each one of us can do to promote safety, I feel it is our duty to do so.

In collecting material for the scrapbooks which I make for invalid veterans and shut-ins, I ran across the enclosed story entitled "Just a Steering Wheel," which I feel, in the interest of safety, deserves a prominent spot in The Record along with some photos of auto accidents that occur almost daily.

L. A. WHITE
R.D. 2, Stroudsburg

Just A Steering Wheel

I'm just a wheel. A steering wheel. And you're my captain. Behind me you're the lord and master of a miracle. You can make me take the kids to school. You can turn me down the sunny road toward town. With me you can guide your goods to the market place . . . you can rush the sick to be healed . . . you can go in minutes to places hours away. You can do magic.

Yet, in the blink of an eye, I can turn deadly killer. I can snuff out the life of a kid still full of life — maybe your kid. I can twist a smile into tears. I can wreck and cripple and destroy. I can deal out death like the plague. And I'm no respecter of persons. A child, a grandmother, even you my friend . . . it's all the same to me.

I'm sensitive. I respond instantly to the hands you give me. Give me calm hands, steady hands, careful hands . . . and I'm your friend. But give me unsteady hands, fuzzy-minded hands, reckless hands . . . then I'm your enemy, a menace to the life, the happiness, the future of every person, every youngster riding, walking, playing.

I was made for pleasure and usefulness. Keep me that way. I'm in your hands. I'm just a steering wheel. And you're my captain. Behind me you're the lord and master of a miracle . . . or a tragedy. It's up to you.

Southern Wayne School Jointure Decides To Discontinue

NEWFOUNDLAND—The Southern Wayne Joint School Board, including Greene, Dreher, Sterling and Lehigh Townships, Monday night voted unanimously to discontinue the jointure.

Citing "unfair attacks and organized opposition" on the part of the Citizens' Committee of Gouldsboro, the board approved the action on the ground that these attacks would interfere seriously with the education of the children of the four townships.

Following the action, four members of the five-man Lehigh Township School Board resigned from the board. They are Wilmer Flower, Russell O'Boyle, Dr. Mervin Williams and V. R. Crooks.

Steven Carr did not resign.

The board, with Harold D. Lee, Sterling Township, as spokesman, submitted the following resolution which was unanimously approved:

Be It Resolved: That the school directors of Greene, Dreher, Sterling and Lehigh townships, reaffirm these facts:

1. That the formation of the jointure of their districts into the Southern Wayne Joint Schools was definitely in the interests of a better educational program for the children of these four townships.

2. That the formation of this jointure was to the financial advantage of the taxpayers of these districts, and especially to the taxpayers of Lehigh Township.

3. That the formation of this jointure was in conformity with the State approved County Plan for the development of the school system of southern Wayne County.

4. That the jointure was formally approved by the Wayne County Board of School Directors and the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction.

5. That the jointure agreement itself and all actions of the member boards in entering the jointure were legal and proper in every respect and that this has been confirmed by legal counsel.

6. That the member boards acted in good faith and with proper discretion as the legally designated representatives of the people.

Be It Further Resolved—

That the directors of these four districts reaffirm their conviction that, with the cooperation and support of the people of Lehigh Township, this jointure could have been of unquestionable benefit to all four districts.

Furthermore, they deplore the fact that a Citizens' Committee in Lehigh Township chose to attack and criticize the Greene-Dreher-Sterling School at Newfoundland rather than join with their neighbors in a constructive and cooperative effort to support a school system which could have brought many educational advantages to their children.

Be It Further Resolved—That the directors of these four districts are of the opinion that the unfair attacks and the organized opposition of this Citizens' Committee against the Lehigh Township School Board and the Southern Wayne Jointure have interfered and would continue to interfere seriously with the education of the children of Lehigh Township.

Furthermore, that the Lehigh Township School Board does not wish the Greene, Dreher and Sterling School Districts, which have operated a harmonious and mutually advantageous jointure for so many years to be subjected to such actions of pressure and obstruction as have developed since the addition of Lehigh Township to the jointure.

Furthermore, that the school directors of Greene, Dreher and Sterling Townships, recognizing their obligation to their own citizens, do not feel that they can perpetuate a situation which has produced such discord and controversy.

Therefore Be It Resolved—That effective August 17, 1959, the directors of the Greene, Dreher, Sterling and Lehigh Township School Districts, in accordance with Section 1708 of the School Laws of Pennsylvania, do hereby discontinue the Southern Wayne Joint School System, which was formed by their agreement of May 22, 1959.

Furthermore, that the Lehigh Township School District hereby recognizes and agrees to assume financial responsibility for any materials, equipment, supplies or services pertaining to the Gouldsboro School and the Lehigh Township School District for which commitments have been made by the Southern Wayne Joint Schools and is, in turn, released from any financial obligation for materials, equipment, supplies or services pertaining to the school at Newfoundland and for which commitments have been made by the Southern Wayne Joint Schools.

Before the resolution was adopted, Edgar Jenkins, assistant superintendent of Wayne County Schools, read a lengthy letter from Attorney Sidney Krawitz, expressing the legal opinion that the board had been unjustly and unfairly attacked by the citizens who claimed that (1) the board had exceeded its authority in entering the jointure; (2) the board's action in entering the jointure constituted an abuse of discretion; (3) the action was illegal; (4) the jointure was illegal.

Counsel stated that none of the accusations was true.

Jenkins gave a brief history of the events leading up to the jointure: on May 2, 1958, the Lehigh Township board stated that it would not consider jointure with East of the Mountain, but would join the Greene-Dreher-Sterling setup. On February 6, 1959, by a 3-2 vote, the directors (Lehigh) voted to join East of the Mountain.

Turned down by the Wayne County Board in their petition for a release from the jointure in Wayne County, the board resigned and the new board voted unanimously to join with GDS. The jointure was formed on May 22.

Then the citizens' committee began its protest of the jointure, which ended with the dissolution of the jointure this week.

Following the joint meeting, the individual boards met, with Greene, Dreher and Sterling signing articles of agreement re-forming the Greene, Dreher and Sterling jointure under the name Southern Wayne Joint School.

Design Makes Lamp Popular Addition

THE SIMPLE design of this modern lamp makes a handsome addition to a table, settee, the top of your television set, or your favorite desk.

Its unique in another way; it is one of the first in a series of pattern projects in which aluminum plays an important part.

To simplify making, the shade is cut to exact shape of the full size pattern with an ordinary pair of shears. To further simplify construction, the pattern shows exactly where to fold to obtain the finished shape desired.

Directions show how to cut and fold a one-half lipped edge, all the way around the shade to obtain a professional looking, smooth rolled edge. A pair of pliers and a hammer are about the most important tools required. When folded to proper shape, ends are secured by a narrow crease, then pressed together with a pair of pliers. A new adhesive, applied with a brush, welds the two parts permanently without need for blow torch or welding machine. Complete directions for installing stock size lamp fixture are included.

Send 50 cents in coin or money order for Planter Lamp Number 541; send 35 cents additional for 64 page catalog illustrating over 300 other build it yourself items to Pattern Department. The Daily Record P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, N. Y.

Parade of Homes

Design Of Home Proves Exciting

WITH LONG sweeping lines, contoured window wall and closely integrated planter boxes, H-519 is a design that is different and exciting.

Transition from out-to-in is subtle because of a unique roof aperture that extends down to shoulder height. The entrance itself is an area set apart rather than an abrupt intrusion on the living room.

Once in the living room, one cannot help being awed. One complete wall of ledge rock houses the fireplace but there's still plenty of wall area for easy furniture arrangement. Exterior is recalled by studio ceiling that conforms to roof pitch. An illusion of extreme spaciousness is imparted by the front window wall and three panel windows on the side.

Generous Dimensions
With its generous dimensions, the living room does not have to borrow space from the family room. Thus, both rooms are clearly defined and have their own identity.

The family room's fireplace also occupies a complete wall. Economy is achieved by back-to-back positioning.

With a breakfast nook on one side and family room on the other, it was easy to hold the kitchen size down. A U-Plan arrangement with peninsula counter was arranged, however, to insure ample space for cabinets and counters.

With closets and lavatories serving as buffers, the sleeping area is zoned away from the daytime activity area. Master's dimensions have been provided in all three bedrooms as well as spacious walk-in wardrobe closets. The master bedroom has an adjoining bath which features double sink vanity and window-size wall mirror.

Prefabricated Steel Closet Shelf Newest Convenience

A NEW convenience for homeowners is a prefabricated steel closet shelf which never needs painting and supports more weight than it has ever been possible to put upon a typical shelf before.

There are four models of these shelves to fit every size closet from two to six feet wide. By using two or more units, supported at their edges by center brackets which are also available, it is possible to install shelves of even greater widths.

The shelf units come with a built-in hanger run and can easily hold any number of clothes hangers without snagging. The baked-in enamel surface of the shelf provides a precision-smooth surface which will not snag delicate fabrics.

The manufacturer of the new shelf, the Bilco Company of New Haven, Conn., says that anyone can install one in two minutes. The only tools required are a hammer and a tape measure. Wall brackets come with the units and should be set at equal heights at the right and left walls. The brackets have pre-punched holes through which it is possible to nail directly into the studs.

With the brackets in place, the shelf is merely adjusted to the right length and is slipped over the lips of the brackets. No painting is required, and the unit is ready to use.

Because of their factory-engineered construction, the wardrobe shelves hold more clothes and give closets a cleaner, neater appearance.

Two sizes of prefabricated linen shelves are also available. These are sixteen inches deep and adjustable from 20 to 36 inches in width.

Basement Important For Storage

THE IMPORTANCE of the basement as a storage area for equipment used both inside and outside the house is emphasized in the new Minimum Property Standards of the Federal Housing Administration, which have just gone into effect throughout the country.

The regulations were developed after three years of discussion by all segments of the housing industry. They underline the need for accessible storage which surveys have repeatedly revealed as one of the most pressing needs of modern home owners. The F. H. A. increases the volume of storage space required in every home built from now on, and cites the basement as a location for these storage facilities.

Under the new rules, every house must have at least 200 cubic feet of volume for general storage purposes, plus 75 cubic feet per bedroom. This space must be provided in addition to closets in each bedroom, coat and linen closets, and kitchen shelves for food, utensils and equipment.

Space Must Be Accessible

At least 25 per cent of the required storage volume must be located inside the house, according to the F. H. A., and at least 50 per cent must be located so that items and equipment used out of doors may be conveniently stored. Acceptable exterior storage space must be accessible to the outdoors and it must not be necessary to cross any habitable room to reach it. The remaining 25 per cent may be indoor or outdoor storage space.

The F.H.A. cites a basement with direct access to the exterior as suitable for both interior and exterior storage. The net effect of the new ruling may be to cut builders' construction costs by eliminating the need for exterior sheds, utility rooms and other storage arrangements.

According to the Better Basement Institute, the regulations can be met simply by providing a door in the foundation and steps to the grade. Inexpensive ways of building steps have been developed, and the stairway can be protected against the elements with a standard-size steel hatchway.

Stop Damage For Rain

DO SUDDEN Summer thunderstorms cause rain to cascade down your outside steps to the basement, and pools to form at the foot of your stairs? Even home-owners with drains at the foot of the stairs often answer yes, for the drains—attached to dry wells—have a habit of filling up with dirt.

The problem of flooded basement steps—and of possible flooding of the basement as well—can be eliminated permanently if you cover your stairs with an all-steel hatchway. This unit is completely water-tight and caulked at all joints, so that no rain water can get onto your steps when it rains.

Just Between Us —

—By Ency Schick

A mind buzzing with local social activity drew a blank last night when it came time to write this column. There just didn't seem to be anything "between us" other than heat and the sound of the katy-dids calling for more hot weather.

Then I began to think of what is between us and the first of September and realized that some people have to spend their vacation in this heat. A kind of heat that almost compels you to keep from moving around.

It's strange thinking of something like heat having control over human beings. But, unless we move around from climate to climate it does. For when the heat is high we dress to fight it and when the heat is low we dress to keep the heat in and ourselves warm. In other words heat determines our pattern of dress.

Ha! The fashion designers think they are setting our styles but if all of a sudden the "thing" which makes heat hot or cold decided to make winter very hot, all the predicted Fall and Winter fashions would be no fur collars or full sweeping coats. Leather would be laughed at as well as bulky sweaters. Hats and the new gaily decorated stockings wouldn't have a chance of survival this Winter if the heat really took over.

But then of course it isn't going to take over, because we can fight it with air conditioners, fans and cool drinks. But who wants to live in a darkened air conditioned room all their life. Besides it is nice to bundle up in a coat or rich plaid skirt and matching sweater.

Well, we could always go to the moon. Maybe then the climate wouldn't be so varied and we could find a happy medium.

People Who Are Happy Can Give Best Advice

By Anne Heywood

Some time ago I wrote about the bad advice we can get from "friends" and some of the reactions from it were remarkable. One woman accused me of being anti-people, and many readers sent me letters giving examples of the meanness of "friends."

My favorite is this letter from a reader in New Jersey: "I heartily agree with you that friends can do us more harm, without even trying, than our enemies can with endless plots."

Trying To Decide
"I know a woman in her early fifties who is trying hard to decide whether she wants to get married or live alone, now that her mother is dead. Her mother died a few years ago and for the past thirty years this woman had cared for her."

"Her well-meaning friends (many her age and unmarried), plus her close relatives, urge her to stay single, even though there is a fine man in the picture who wants to marry her."

Wants Advice
The letter then goes into a long story about the details of the case, and the way in which this woman is influenced by her friends, ending by asking me to advise the woman.
Well, to her and to anybody else who is getting unsolicited advice from kin and kith I'd say this:

First, translate what people say into what they say it.

When a lonely spinster urges you against marriage, with tales of the perils of men and how they're probably only out after your savings, pay no attention to what she says and concentrate on the reasons for her saying it. Chances are, they're a compound of envy, bitterness and misery - loves-company.

When a lazy matron urges you not to start a home project because it will exhaust you and you haven't the brains anyway, and you'll neglect your family, concentrate on why she says it. Chances are, she's afraid that if you amount to something she'll feel insignificant, and that if her husband sees you bringing in twenty or thirty dollars a week for the family budget.

Writing Friends Meet In United States; Patsy Bridge Meets Mr. And Mrs. Booth And Daughter Enid For Week's Visit

People have been having pen pals for many years. Usually these pen pal friendships follow the same routing of sending nice letters back and forth which tell about each individual's respective country. But sometimes these people meet and this is what happened this week in Stroudsburg. Not only did Patsy Bridge of 541 Fifth Street meet Enid Booth of South America but her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Torzillo, met Enid's also.

Patsy and Enid started writing to each other five years ago when Enid lived in Manchester, England. Enid's older sister Ann was a pen pal of Mrs. Ted Mitchell, Stroudsburg and then through a school connection Enid and Patsy Bridge began corresponding.

Three years ago Enid's parents, Hilda and Joe Booth moved to Lima, Peru where Mr. Booth works in the spinning section of a textile mill. At the time of their moving, they tried to get to Stroudsburg to meet Patsy and her parents but they couldn't make the connections so they promised that when they returned to England in three years for a three months vacation they would travel by way of the United States and finally meet Patsy and her family.

Vacation Starts
Early this week the Booths and their daughter Enid left a Winter-like climate in South America and flew to the Idlewild Airport in New York. On Sunday, they will fly direct from Idlewild to Manchester on the British Airlines. They will visit friends and relatives in Manchester and then take a leisurely 28 day cruise from Liverpool, England to a port near Lima.

Their daughter, Ann, who visited Mrs. Ted Mitchell in January and who has been studying in England will return with the Booths and Enid to South America where she will work in an office.

This is the first visit to the United States for the Booths. They comment on the country by saying "It is a lovely country, wonderful people. It reminds us of Northern England and the lake district."

South America
The South American seasons are in reverse of ours in the United States but even so the winters are not as cold. Christmas is celebrated in a climate similar to the weather we are having now.

Mrs. Booth said that so many people think of the country as being uncivilized but the city of Lima is modern and up-to-date. It is very much Americanized with television, paper and all the modern electrical conveniences available to Americans.

Of course there is one difference and that is that everything is in Spanish. They have the same advertisements similar to those for soft drinks, and other foods that we have in restaurants but the words are in Spanish.

This is not a hindrance in shopping, once you know the money system, for there are big supermarkets in Lima and all one need do is push his cart around and pick out the things he desires. Just as we do in Stroudsburg supermarkets.

Enid does go to an English school about fifteen miles from Lima and is taught by English teachers. However, even the dog, Sally, comes in contact with Spanish. The girl who helps Mrs. Booth at home speaks nothing but Spanish and orders the dog in the same foreign tongue.

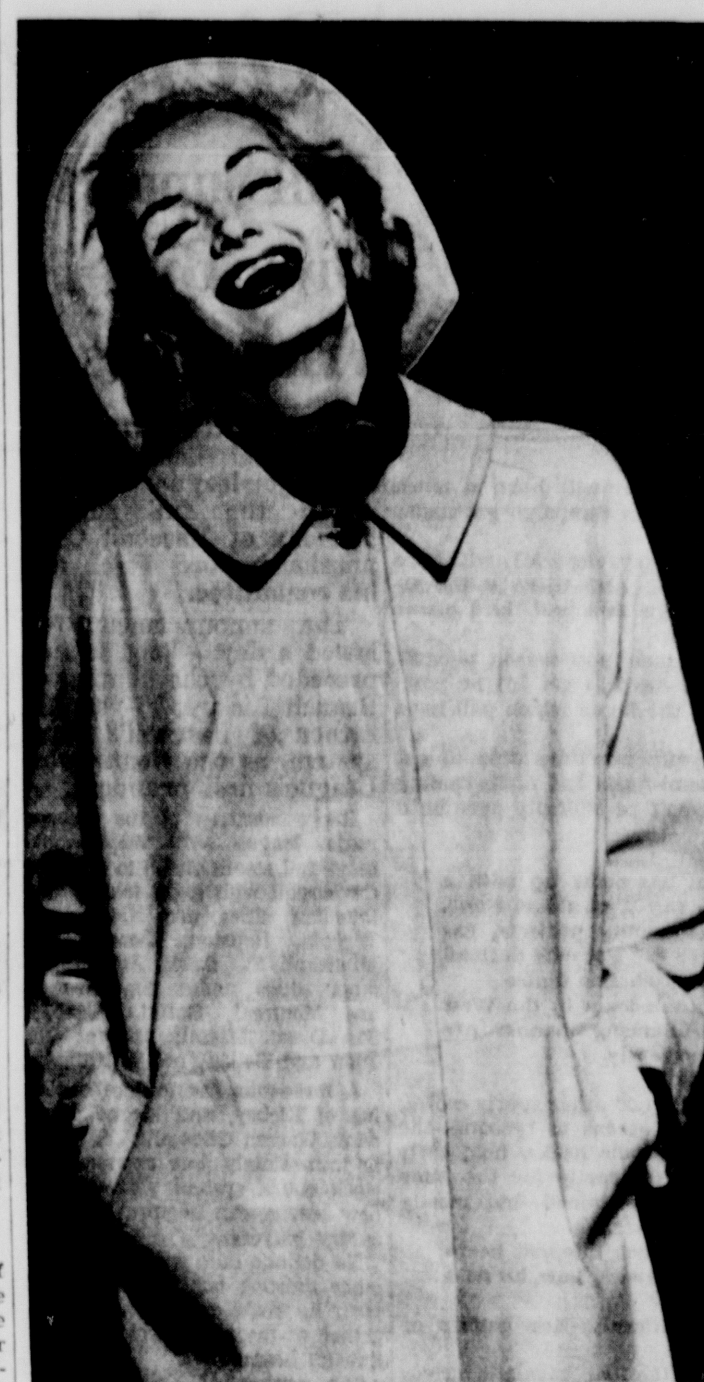

In discussing politics the Booths say it is better not to. Mr. Booth says, "Never bother about politics for no one knows what he is doing anyway."

Mrs. Booth says "It is best not to interfere with politics." The Booths who are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Torzillo, read about the flood in 1955 and kept in touch with the area by having copies of the newspaper sent to them in England.

Arrival
On arriving they saw some of New York including the Statue of Liberty and when they leave on Sunday they hope for a clear day to go to the top of the Empire State Building.

They have been seeing the country around the Stroudsburgs and last evening had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Albert, Stokes Mill Rd. During the day Patsy and Enid go swimming with Brenda, Patsy's sister.

This is one pen pal friendship that proved worthwhile and has helped to give both families an insight into another country.

WHOEVER HEARD OF A LEATHER RAINCOAT?—Nobody, until Samuel Robert found the way to weatherize kidskin without sacrificing its soft, flexible texture, as seen in this classic beige balmaccan. Raindrops won't spot; other dirt wipes off with a damp cloth. Elegant proof you can face all weather in leather—if you can face the price which is about $185.

American Designer Strikes The Fashion World With Leather For Coming Season

New York—"In a few years every well-dressed woman will have a separate wardrobe made up entirely of leather fashions," predicts Samuel Robert, America's versatile designer of couturier leathers.

In his collection for Fall and Winter, leather not only comes to town in grand style but adds a vigorous new dimension to country living.

Leather, says Mr. Robert, is no longer a substitute for fabrics but has developed a separate and unique fashion entity all its own.

Technical advances have given it the draping qualities of softest wool, and color range of the spectrum and an almost magical resistance to weather and wear while retaining the sensual security of the oldest, most basic body covering since the cave-dwellers.

Colors include tawny autumnal shades, vivid jewel tones of ruby, sapphire and emerald, muted pastels and the intensity of black and white.

Fur is evident on leather this year also. The fur trims stress lynx, silver fox, black mink and Sonali leopard.

Imagine a shirtdress in supple suede that combines the draping qualities of fine fabric with the wearability of fine leather.

A fashion milestone is the kidskin raincoat (pictured on this page). This was once impossible because of perishability but is now a reality because Samuel Robert's weatherize process prevents water spots.

Leather may be the oldest body covering known to man, but Samuel Robert has developed it into one of the newest and most gratifying fashion concepts for women.

Whatever became of Hoola Hoops? No doubt they are still available in well-stocked toy stores from coast to coast, but certainly they are not a common sight on the streets these days. Yet what a craze they were! I can remember entering a city store, not too many months ago, and finding a girl in the center aisle doing absolutely nothing but handing out hoola hoops as fast as she could do so. It was laughable... there wasn't a man or woman, pushing his or her way through the revolving doors, who wasn't struggling with a hoop slung over the shoulder.

This was not true of just one city... or even just one continent. From my friends in the Netherlands Information Service comes word that the land of the dyke was also seriously infested with Hoola Hoops. But there too they are passe today. However, you can't beat the Dutch for getting something out of an investment... and here is a suggestion from a Dutch newspaperwoman: Cut through the Hoola Hoop at one point with a sharp knife, joining the two ends by means of a brass or plastic T-connector, available at a hardware store. Lay the hoop flat. With a hot knitting needle, prick holes at random all through the hoop, taking care that the bottom remains intact. Attach one end of your garden hose to a faucet, the other to the third opening of the T-connector, and there you are—with a fascinating, lightweight portable sprinkler.

Not only is this an adult use for a child's toy... but you can't tell me the kids wouldn't enjoy their hoola hoops all over again, as new and exciting outdoor showers.

We talk so often about the many other items we sell at Wyckoff's we overlook the fact that we also have a silver department, where you can buy both sterling and plated wear. While much of today's plated wear is as beautiful and rich in design as the more expensive sterling, the latter is, of course, every bride's fondest dream—and one she is most fortunate to have fulfilled.

Yesterday's mail brought a letter from Marian Marsh, director of Oneida's Table Planning Service, in which she points out that silver, while it needs and deserves special care, is actually much more durable than brides often realize. Daily use is wise, as the resulting small, almost invisible scratches, form a lovely patina that beautifies the surface. However, the pieces should be rotated so that each gets an equal amount of wear. After usage, silver should be washed immediately, in hot, sudsy water, rinsed in clear hot water, and dried while still hot. The heat retained in the metal will evaporate any moisture that remains after drying. Silver should never be allowed to "dry itself," as there are tarnish-forming elements in the air, that cause streaking and spotting.

Many brides, according to Miss Marsh, feel they are protecting their silver by washing it on a rubber sink mat. Actually this is wrong... for just as eggs, egg products, salts, and acids, contain damaging sulphur, so does a rubber mat... in fact, rubber brims with sulphur and produces tarnish with lightning speed.

Miss Marsh recommends too that brides keep an eye on their husbands to see that they do not use dinner knives to cut grapefruit, or dinner forks to stir the scrambled eggs. Good silver is NOT a "cooking utensil."

When polishing, use a small soft brush to reach inaccessible places, but avoid removing areas of dark oxidation that are actually part of the design. Remember all this, for the beauty of your silver... and remember, when you buy silver, SHOP WYCKOFF'S FIRST.

Musical Wins Praise At Pocono Playhouse

By David Ottaway
MOUNTAINHOME—When the Great White Way of New York City cuts a trail along the Summer stock circuit, it inevitably runs against the problem of smaller playhouse production.

This week the curtain of the Pocono Playhouse rises on Charles Gaynor's musical revue "Lend An Ear."

Director and featured comedienne Jenny Lou Law has done a marvelous job with the show's production under definitely restrictive conditions of stage space.

Aiding in the success of production are Peter Conlow, choreographer, George Bauer, musical director and arranger, Jack Bates, settings, and Marion Lathrop, costumes.

Together they have produced a delightful, fast moving, satirical revue of the modern day world and the theatrical world of the early 20th century.

The play is more a potpourri of individual skits than a single plot-formed structure. The tone of the show is set in the opening song a few words of which are "let your hair down and have a little fun." Jenny Lou Law has nearly perfected the variety of play she acts throughout the play. Her showmanship is of high quality with excellent control of facial expressions, voice and gestures. Her one weak point is stage movement which is a bit rough in spots. She does not always move with ease. Often the awkwardness is a part of the role but this is not always the case.

Her high point in the first act is a number entitled "Ballade" in which she combines technique with personality in a satire of the old time, home-made guitar and the home-spun ballad.

In the second act she is Mrs. Playgoer in "All the World's." This requires a variety of personality changes which she adeptly fulfills.

Charles Nelson Reilly is Mr. Playgoer in this skit and proves equally capable of the change in personalities. Mr. Reilly is cast in a number of roles, the most hilarious, to my mind, being the delinquent son in "Mother Knows Best."

Susan Watson does a commendable job in a number of singing parts and has the single solo of the second act "I'm on the Lookout." Elizabeth Allen, singer, and Rod Strong, dancer, team together in a number "Who Hit Me?" It is an interesting counterbalance of motion on the part of Strong and the immobile singer Elizabeth Allen. The foil is an empty stage which emphasizes the relationship between the two.

The entire cast is to be commended for handling themselves so aptly in a limited space. Al Checco continuously portrays the off-beat and the sour throughout the show. In the midst of joviality and smiles, there stands Checco, whose facial expressions of boredom and discontent are superb.

The cast includes Tom Cahill, Barbara Creed, Jack Eddleman, Sherry McCutcheon, Alan Peterson, June Squibb, Fiddle Vircola and Jeff Warren.

Judged under the standards of Broadway musicals, "Lend An Ear" has the change of tempo, the variety of types of skits, and the fast moving pace to make it an extremely enjoyable show. The comical is mixed with the musical to give the tired businessman (for whom the opening song says the play is made) an after hour treat.
